Dear Delegate,

The climate crisis and air pollution are destroying our children's lives.

One billion children today are extremely vulnerable to climate disasters, especially those in the Global South, even though those countries have done the least to contribute to carbon pollution.

The key driver of this crisis is the burning of fossil fuels.

World leaders must embrace life-saving renewable energy at pace; stop all new fossil fuel expansion such as the proposed East African Crude Oil Pipeline; and support a just transition.

This must include a Loss and Damage Fund to help families cope with ever more extreme floods, heatwaves and rising seas.

All children have a right to clean air, a healthy environment and a safe planet.

Put #KidsFirst at COP27!
